Saturday (2005) is a novel by Ian McEwan. It is set in Fitzrovia, London, on Saturday, 15 February 2003, as a large demonstration is taking place against the United States' 2003 invasion of Iraq. The protagonist, Henry Perowne, a 48-year-old neurosurgeon, has planned a series of chores and pleasures culminating in a family dinner in the evening. As he goes about his day, he ponders the meaning of ...

Ian McEwan is one of the greatest novelists writing today but this book, published in 2001, is a big disappointment in my view. It sounds interesting - the tale of how a 13-year old girl from an upper middle class family ruins the life of two other people one day and then has to live with her demons.

The sixth book in my ongoing Ian McEwan binge and it has only given me a craving for more. The Children Act weaves a story of Fiona Maye, a 59-year-old British High Court judge in the Family Division, through her rocky marriage and her cases. Once again, I am bowled over by McEwan's exquisite portrayal of human truths and subterfuges to avoid ...
