Hey everybody, I have a 1988 c7000 GMC TECO forestry bucket truck. The truck runs and drives it has the 8.2 liter Detroit diesel motor. The motor starts up so easy but is not really the strongest motor I was wondering is there any little modifications I can do I think the air filter is a little limiting because all the air has to come through about a 6-inch hole

1st, I'd call and see if a maintenance manual is available. My truck is a 2000 model & they got me a manual : service and operators' for about 250$ & it took a couple of weeks. Call Ed...but it'd be wise to learn your truck's hydraulics' systems 1st. I knew very little about hydraulics also, but work at a chemical plant & know how to trace lines.
